500 Turn Out For Free Food And Toys At Survival Festival

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA B.P.P. CHAPTER CELEBRATES FIRST ANNIVERSARY

(Los Angeles, Calif.) - Over 500 people turned out to celebrate the first anniversary of the return of the Black Panther Party to southern California at the Southern California BPP Chapter's First Annual Winter Survival Festival held here on January 21.

Highlights of the festive Saturday event were the distribution of over 300 bags of groceries and 130 toys and the commemoration of the ninth anniversary of the assassinations of Alprentice "Bunchy" Carter and John Huggins.

The two Southern California BPP leaders were murdered on January 17, 1969, on the campus of the University of California here as part of the nationwide FBI COINTELPRO effort to destroy the Black Panther Party.

The Winter Festival, which also included lively musical entertainment and poetry readings, was an expression of the Southern California Chapter's thanks to the Black and oppressed community of Los Angeles for its contributions and firm support throughout the first year of rebuilding the Chapter.

Since the Chapter reopened on January 17, 1977, it has established numerous Survival

Programs, among them the Free Food Program, Seniors Against A Fearful Environment (SAFE) Program, Consumer Survival Program, Liberation School and Martial Arts

"Longest Walk" Protest Planned, Feb. 11 INDIAN RIGHTS UNDER ATTACK

(Davis, Calif.) - In a major effort to combat a new wave of repressive legislation which would terminate all existing treaties signed between the U.S. and Indian tribes, Native Americans from across the country are preparing to embark on "The Longest Walk" on February 11, a cross-country winter journey from San Francisco to the nation's capital to bring national attention to the legislative attempt to expropriate Indian lands and all rights to self-determination.

This latest attack on the Native Americans has surfaced in the House of Representatives, with a current total of 18 congressmen either introducing or co-sponsoring anti-Indian legislation.

The most critical of these bills is H.R.9054, the deceptively-named "Native American Opportunity Act," sponsored by Representative Jack Cunningham of Washington state.

H.R.9054 provides not only for the abolishment of all treaties entered into with Indian tribes by the U.S., but also for the abrogation of all rights and protections guaranteed to Indian people by these treaties, such as the rights to hunt and fish.

In effect, it will terminate all federal protections of Native American people and expropriate all Indian-controlled lands.

"The Longest Walk," which is being organized by the National Indian Coalition, will begin February 11 when much of this legislation will be considered with the reconvening of Congress on that date.

The Coalition has targeted 11 pieces of dangerous legislation which have been introduced into the U.S. House and Senate. In addition to H.R.9054, they include:

- HJR 1 - Creates an off reservation Indian Treaty Fishing Rights Commission to buy out Native American trade rights.

- HJR 206 - Gives the states powers to regulate hunting and fishing outside reservations by Indians.

- H.R. 4169, and Senate version S.B. 842 -
